CHAPLIN DRINKS HIS BEER WITH COUNTLESS

Movie Star Flees Crowd in Berlin to Enjoy Himself in Cellar Cafe

Berlin, March 10.—The beautiful dark-haired Countess Ruth York last night served Charlie Chaplin where Berlin's husky police reserves failed—winning him a brief respite from the violent affections of the riotous fans who mobbed Charlie on his arrival here.

Guided by the 24-year-old comedia, Hollywood's premier comedian slipped out of a side door of the Hotel Adlon while two gates in front stemmed the rush of admiring thousands.

With pursuers slanted, the countess and Charlie visited a theater and then a beer cellar where Chaplin emptied several schooners.

"It was fascinating and what a relief to slip away from the crowd," sighed Charlie, once safely back in his hotel.

During the day he had been the hero of Berlin's stormy reception in years.

Marlene Dietrich, German film star, had attempted to approach the comedian at the station, but a number of policemen seized her and lifted the beauty to a platform.

The latter, where she was photographed with Berlin's lord.

of Lincolnton, Eng., removed to Lynn Hospital.

At the hospital it was said that while the wound in itself was not serious, Mrs. Little had lost considerable blood during the time she was believed to have lain unconscious on the apartment floor.

Nothing in the apartment, however, had apparently been touched, according to the janitor, and it would have been impossible for any person to enter without a key.

All three boys delivered to Mrs. Little when she took occupancy of the apartment nine days ago were found hanging on a nail in the kitchenette.

Mrs. Little, according to Inspector Murphy, met her husband overseas while she was a nurse and the latter company manager was a member of the Royal Flying Corps. The inspector said he understood that the couple had been estranged for two years.

Before - After!

DOUBLE CHIN AND WRINKLES MUST GO Says Lou.

FACE LIFTING - MUSCLE SHRINKING PLANNED. LOU WANTS FACE TO LOOK LIKE THIS - AGAIN

Look Lou Tellegen, actor, hunched over, with double chin and wrinkled face, and how he figures to look once wrinkles are chased away and his face lifted. He plans to enter talkies if he can "look like 35 again." His rejuvenation will take 10 days.

New York, March 10 (AP)—The New York American today said Lou Tellegen, actor, is going into retirement for ten days to have his wrinkles chased away.

He will undergo new rejuvenation treatment, the paper said, consisting of facial paintings which will shrink muscles into youthful lines.

This is the way the American puts it:

The erstwhile matinee idol says he has a chance to go into talking pictures in two weeks, providing he does not look a wrinkled over 35.

There are some straight lines in the actor's face that are the lucky stars of the short distance between Mr. Tellegen and a motion picture star.

"I don't see just what my object was, but I don't think my part was rather too false and lavish of praise, considering everything."

Miss Farrar has announced her retirement from the concert stage effective at the conclusion of her tour next winter.

CAN BREAK NECK NOW

"For 30 years I haven't been able to do anything I really cared to," she said. "I'm crazy about the things I do best—can do it as much as I like because I've broken my neck, some opera company can't afford to be out of it."

Now if I want to break my neck, it's not now. If I want to ride a horse—which is not one of the things I do best—I can do it with a clear conscience. If I have broken my neck, I can't ride a horse.

I'm beginning a new life with a viewpoint as fresh as one-half my age. I'm 37 years old and I'm 30 years old, and I'm blessedly happy."

Miss Farrar is spending her 40th birthday with Mrs. Ellis, who discovered the possibilities of her good as some to 40 Little Rock Negroes, wherefore two open doors failed to tempt them to come to the state fair last night.

Two officers making their rounds discovered a call open at both ends, but all 40 prisoners serving out $10 to $100 fines.

"Good coffee and beans here, caps." The reason given for the sudden appearance for the failure to take advantage of the opportunity to escape.

Noble Wants New Suit for Appearance in Court

By a Staff Correspondent

Lawrence, March 10.—Russell B. Noble, accused hammer slayer of Mrs. Clara E. C. Ellis of Haverhill, today made his first request since his incarceration in the Lawrence jail.

He wants a new suit of clothes brought to him this afternoon so that he can look at his best for the first act of his murder trial drama, scheduled to take place in Haverhill district court tomorrow morning.

This request Russell made of his brother, Charles M. Noble, whose efforts to sell the $10 writ which belonged to Mrs. Ellis brought about the accused youth's present predicament.

When Charles, Noble, called at the jail this morning Russell appeared to be a happy carefree youth, without a thought of his serious difficulties.

"What's the matter, Russ?" asked Charles.

"Well, when you came yesterday I meant to tell you to bring me a suit of clothes so I can look respectable when I go to court tomorrow."

"What's the matter with the suit you've got?" asked Charles.

"Why, can't you see that these pants are all torn, and all I have is this old coat that I wore down here. The cops took all the clothes I had. The papers say they are looking for bloodstains on them."

According to Charles Noble, Russell displays no evidence that the hammer attack, which police say he confessed, troubles him in the least.

Any mention of the murder and its aftermath, the situation he received in the upper cell of his cell by craning into the irregularly with the story that he had found a wrist watch recently bought by his mother, Ellis. It was this watch that led to his arrest.

The suit is a light of relief in aristocratic circles when word spread that the "model boy" had been locked up for the hammer attack. No less than three prominent men had come within the range of suspicion.

Mr. Harry Jones said today: "The suit is a light of relief in aristocratic circles when word spread that the 'model boy' had been locked up for the hammer attack. No less than three prominent men had come within the range of suspicion."

"Because of the prominence of Mrs. Ellis and her family, suspicion in some quarters that certain names might be suppressed was a foregone conclusion."

"When the State detective told them the Haverhill authorities were looking for the person who attacked Mrs. Ellis, no matter how bad or prominent he might be. There was to be no self-protection by building up. That was understood by all spectators from the outset. We all pulled together."

BREWSTER MUST MARRY CORLISS PALMER AGAIN

LEARNS MEXICO CEREMONY NOT QUITE ENOUGH

Hollywood, Cal., March 10 (US)—After nearly five years of what they consider a happily married state, Eugene V. Brewster, once wealthy publisher, and Corliss Palmer, motion picture actress, are planning another wedding ceremony.

The Brewsters were married in Ensenada, Lower California, in 1926, after he secured a Mexican divorce from his second wife.

The new marriage ceremony was decided upon, Brewster said today, when he discovered Mexican marriages were not recognized in some states of the United States.

"And, in the event of my death," he declared, "I would not like to have Mrs. Brewster's interests in my estate in jeopardy."

Fortune gone The estate of which Brewster spoke is not a 50th part of the amount he once was reputed to be worth.

Comparatively "broke," he and the beautiful Georgia girl who became his third wife are now living in a tiny cottage in the rear of a house Brewster owns in Hollywood.

That house, with two or three others in the neighborhood, and another more pretentious is practically all that is left of Brewster's millions.

All the rooms are furnished exactly with hundreds of art objects, rare books, paintings and curios gathered by the once-wealthy publisher in all parts of the world.

RETURN TO FILMS "I am not penniless," Brewster said today, "everything I have is mortgaged. I will live it all if I do not raise some money soon."

"I venture to say, if I could sell everything for the cash I paid for it and pay off my debts, I have $50,000 left. The money used to be rated at $2,000,000."

Corliss is planning a second attempt at a motion picture career and already has two or three prospective engagements.

MARRIAGE DIDN'T "TAKE"

Former Corliss Palmer, screen actress, whose Mexican marriage to Eugene V. Brewster, former wealthy publisher, is not recognized in some states. They'll remarry in Hollywood.

Dark Days Ahead, Noble's Horoscope Reveals

By EDNA BLAKE HALD

Russell Burns Noble
Haverhill, Mass.

October 16, 1852. 5 A. M.

well known Noble will expect years 9 and 24, May 21 and June 23, and between December 6 and 16, 1931.

At least it will be in these periods that the most trying planetary influences will be operative in his affairs, and Saturn, the grim enforcer of law, will be in adverse aspect with the natal sun and moon, two of the most vital points in a horoscope.

Although there will be a radical change in the sentiments of many of his friends and acquaintances who now vehemently express sympathy and proffer support, as shown by the position of Mars and Neptune in his chart, the student of astrology must necessarily feel pity after considering the overwhelming array of adverse planetary aspects in operation from Jan. 15 throughout the greater part of the year.

According to his horoscope, this boy has not been normal for some time. The subtle Neptune hovering over his Ascendant shows an indolent, chaotic, somewhat hysterical condition, or a "mad" affecting his manner of self-expression and his health. Yet he might pass difficult intelligence tests, for the affliction is of an emotional and glandular nature rather than having to do with a purely mental or nerve disorder.

That this boy is subject to the ailments, is indicated by Neptune, afflicted at birth in the "stomach and glandular" sign Cancer, now passing over the focal point of his horoscope in the "digestive" sign, Virgo. And it is reported he has been reading sensational stories and eating rich and starchy foods in excess, these can but have aggravated his condition, which, in any case, must have become apparent to some extent during the period of adolescence.

It is natural that those who know him should be astounded by his predicament for he was born with Venus, planet of gracefulness, sensibility, gentleness and kindness, in the conscientious sign, Virgo. This confers good looks and good humor, willingness to serve, thoughtfulness and consideration of others, neatness, some vanity, mercurial, and, altogether, a very attractive personality.

DOOMED TO TROUBLE

True, cold hard Saturn formed an adverse aspect with Venus at birth, which affects the disposition and brings deep sorrow into the life, and ancient text-books say that Saturn in mid-heaven raises one to a position of some prominence only to cast one into a abyss of trouble. Even with an affliction of Saturn, however, Virgo natives are rarely disposed toward violence. When they are it is usually in connection with records or accounts, or they may misappropriate funds, commit forgery, or counterfeit.

If only one of Russell Noble's friends or counselors had known astrology, and understood the threat of Mars opposed to Jupiter from the House of associates to the House of centers of instruction or entertainment, he might have been spared a terrible temptation. He should not have been entrusted with the funds of friends or school associates at this time. Yet, under normal conditions, he would be frank, straightforward and trustworthy.

IMPRACICAL NATURE

Mercury, the mental planet and ruler of his Ascendant, was in the probable, direct and keen sign, Scorpio, with aspects of planets that indicate honesty, as well as a feeling in student's life associated with health conditions—Mercury square Uranus.

As in the case of Ruth Snyder, victim of William and many, many others, Mars conjunction Neptune seems to be conducive to impractical schemes that are invariably exposed.

In this case, Mars will again pass over Neptune between March 17 and 25, when it is probable that anything of a mysterious nature will come to light.

As hundreds of persons in New England are now students of astrology, it might be well to mention a few of the major adverse influences: Uranus square Mars, progressed Ascendant square Rahu, progressed Moon square Ascendant and opposed to Saturn, and Mars conjunction Neptune, besides those already mentioned.

The horoscope of Russell Burns Noble, Haverhill, Mass., was interpreted by Edna Blake Hald.

LIFE STORY OF NOBLE FULL OF ACTION

Studious Habits of Boy Held as Hammer Killer Developed Early

By RUTH MUGGERIDGE

This is the second installment of the life story of Russell Noble as told by his guardian, his brother and his cousin. The first chapter dealt with his birth and early childhood in Haverhill.

CHAPTER TWO

Haverhill, March 10—Russell Noble, 5½, walked Fountain street, alone, to the Burnham school house.

The blond, curly-headed youngster was unafraid of the three big R's. He was a proud young Noble, confident of his A, B, C's and the primer.

Long before he attended the first grade, he knew the pictured symbols of the books, thanks to the father whom he worshipped and whose word was law to him. Russell could spell. He could count. He could point to pictures and name them. He wasn't four at the time.

Education's rudiments came naturally to the little fellow. He was like other youngsters he wanted to go to school.

He was a determined boy, even at that age. What he wanted, he usually got. Nobody could resist his smile, his family least of all.

NEVER IDLE

Twelve years ago the boy started school. With each successive year, he tackled back, took inventory of what he had accomplished, and pledged himself to do more.

"He was always a busy kid," his brother Charles reminded.

"When he wasn't on his back, asking questions, he was out in the field romping and playing—many times alone."

Even as a child, the boy found comfort in solitude. Back of the Marshland ave. house of the Nobles, a field stretched into wide expanse. Here the boy would run and sing to himself.

The little boy who planned the conquest of many things, who "talked" with God under open skies, continued to plan in his cell in the east wing of Essex county jail in Lawrence three days.

Through the first grades of the Burnham school, Russell made rapid progress, and he always found time to "get out" and contact nature.

Two and a half years before his school life began, he became a member of the kindergarten Sunday school of the Presbyterian church. He revelled in acquaintance with God and in his children's lives.

From his teacher, Russell learned to read good books, clean books of the great outdoors, to "get close" to nature, and to claim spirituality with all living things.

Two women, his cousin, Mrs. Clara E. Ellis.

"Why doesn't God look at me like the moon?" he queried his mother.

Religious fervor took possession of young Noble in early boyhood, a fervor that he carried with him to his grave, even now when charged with the murder of Mrs. Clara E. Ellis.

It was a Miss Trembley, Russell's third grade teacher, who inspired the youngster most outside of his sheltered home life.

Lucy Rasmussen, and his aunt, Mrs. Sarah Brown, "Gram" to the boy, in the warmth of a modest but comfortable chestnut at house, told back the pages of memory and told of the boy who, when seven or eight, considered it a privilege to do the chores for his mother.

"Russ always wanted to help with dishes. He laughed off any suggestion that it was a girl's job. It was helping his mother, and that he always wanted to do," Mrs. Rasmussen reminded. "He swept the floor for Gram, his mother, he did her every thing." And he never forgot that he had to work.

LIKED CHILDREN

"Work. Why, that boy was a bound for work," Mrs. Brown said. "His daily routine even recently was one that no ordinary boy would have undertaken. He was out every morning, rain or shine, at 4 o'clock for his paper route. Then he'd come back for his breakfast, then go to school. After school he'd work for Karl Brackets in his floral shop, then he'd go out on his paper route and finally come home for his supper."

"And that supper he'd do his studying. And he really studied. The 'model boy' was no prima donna, he was no temperamental young man, his cousin asserted."

"If I have two youngsters," Mrs. Rasmussen said, "and you know how kids sometimes act. They irritate one at times. They tease and are annoying. But never would Russell lose patience with them. He was crazy about them. And when not occupying himself

Which?—Cold Moist Air Cold Dry Air

It is the circulating moist cold air in the refrigerator which keeps food fresh—air which receives moisture by passing continuously over the ice. Moisture is of vital importance in food.

If the air in a refrigerator lacks moisture, fruits and vegetables will dry up, giving off the water that keeps them fresh. Meat loses its flavor and salads become limp.

With the ice compartment of your refrigerator two-thirds filled with pure, sparkling Boston Ice, you can be certain that food will be kept deliciously fresh and flavorful. And you will have all the actual Ice you need for entertaining.

ways was the brightest of the lot. He enjoyed sports and, as young as he was, he frequently stole off to the Wamsutter Challe playground to watch his older brother play baseball or football or tennis.

"I like to think of that birthday party he gave the kids of the Marshland ave. district when he was about five," Charles reminded. "He dressed up in my mother's castoffs, stood himself on a box and told them what he thought about them. It was his play, but they listened to him."

And through the years that followed, Russell maintained true to that desire—to talk to boys in the manner of a boy to help mould them in proclivities and leanings that are sometimes forgotten.

Russell never forgot. He had a marvelous memory. The things he planned as a growing boy, he remembered as an adolescent. He never forgot that he had to "carry on," a bidding of his mother. Incidents in Russell Noble's later school life, which strikingly indicate the development of his character, will be revealed in the third chapter of his life story in tomorrow's Boston Evening American.

AVALANCHE AND SNOW HIT OUAKE TORN BALKANS

By the Associated Press.
Bitter weather continued general over Europe today. Cold winds swept the quake-torn Balkans.

Snow and rock avalanches destroyed telegraph lines and interrupted rail traffic at Chambéry and Thonon-les-Bains, France.

The Black Forest and Rhine Valley in Germany were buried under the deepest snow of years.

English roads were encumbered with ice or piled high with snow. Ships groped through blinding snow and buffeted upon turbulent waves.

New England, and upstate New York storms lifted, with drifts eight to 10 feet high left on highways.

Man gained the upper hand over nature today after a 50-hour battle with the worst snowstorm in 15 years, which had deposited 18 to 24 inches of heavy, wet snow in Western New York since Sunday.

In Rochester 16 inches had fallen and nearly 1700 unemployed, working in eight-hour shifts, had been recruited. Rural sections, for the most part, were snowbound.

The Balkans rumbled a fourth time as disintegration continued beneath the Greek mountains. There were new fissures, but no additional damage of consequence.

Aliens Going Home in Large Numbers

Washington, March 10.—Aliens are now leaving the United States in larger numbers than they are arriving, according to immigration statistics. During January 21,666 aliens departed and only 12,816 were admitted.

Deportation of undesirable aliens was responsible for some of the increased departures. There were 2017 expulsions during January this year, as compared with 1775 during the same month last year.

Mr. Stimson, Secretary of State, will assign an assistant to study Russia for the State Department. But it is announced that the State Department has not changed its mind about Russia, which sounds like the late Dowager Empress of China issuing the order: "Execute this person, and give him a careful trial afterwards."

A country as great and as intelligent as the United States is supposed to be ought to be informed concerning another country as great as Russia. And this country should be particularly interested in the question: "How is it that Russia has no employment problem, and is obliged to draft a million married women to help do the work?"

Veterans, according to General Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, will probably borrow nine hundred million dollars from the government, in accordance with their RIGHT to do so, between now and September.

A great part of the nine hundred millions will be devoted to paying off debts, including various installment purchases, and this ought to help prosperity.

GASOLINE SOLD AT FIVE CENTS

San Francisco, March 10 (AP).—Gasoline sold as low as 5 cents a gallon in Los Angeles and oil prices slumped elsewhere in the State today as a price war, born of over-production, raged on. Low gasoline quotations ranged downward from 12½ cents.

The Standard Oil Company reduced crude oil prices on an average of 50 cents a barrel yesterday.

Formation of Shell Service, Inc., to operate 700 Shell Company service stations was announced by a San Francisco retailer.

New York, March 10 (AP).—Unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation decreased 167,157 tons in February to a total of 3,861,184 tons Feb. 28. In January an increase of 188,035 tons was reported.

Snow Too Deep, No Town Meetings

Kennett, N. H., March 10 (AP).—Town meeting in three Cheshire county towns were adjourned today as a result of the almost impassable road conditions resulting from the snowstorm of Sunday.

State Highway Inspectors, who succeeded in making their way over the drift-covered roads to the Temple and Lemper lines, found 21 automobiles marooned. Their owners had abandoned them in the height of the storm.

Fire Razes 2 Bridges; Mine War Blamed

Boston, Ill., March 10 (AP).—Two railroad bridges between Christopher and Buckner, near here, were burned early today. County officers said it might be a result of a mine war in Franklin and Williams counties.

The bridges are the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy near Christopher and the Missouri Pacific near Buckner. Railroad officials set the time of the blast between 2 and 3 o'clock this morning.

London, March 10 (INS)—Following the wish of Queen Mary, the debutantes presented at this year's royal court at Buckingham Palace will shew their feet.

Which is another way of announcing that Queen Mary has signified her approval of four designs of trains and gowns to be worn at the court.

Debutantes summoned to attend the royal court of 1931 will wear long skirts, but they will not sweep the ground. Instead, the skirt (trains) just below the ankles, revealing the feet.

The girl who receives a command to attend the court will be restricted to white, ivory and other light colors in her choice of dress, but the maids will be able to have cold or silver tissue, many-headed skirts and lace.

The debutante's dress approved by the Queen was composed of net, embroidered with diamonds and pearls. Embroidered trains will be "the" thing.

The forced landing was made on the farm of Jesse Alvin in Cuyler county. Capt. Eaker made his way to the adjoining farm home of Jack Thomas from which he telephoned a telegram here to be forwarded to Long Island, N. Y., telling of the accident.

Mrs. Thomas said the aviator informed her his engine "went dead," forcing him down. After telephone he returned to his ship which residents of the neighborhood said was badly broken up.

Brightest Colors Keynote for Springtime

IF YOU ever had a great yearning for bright color, yet suppressed it because everyone else was wearing sombre shades, then you now have your chance to express yourself.

YOU MAY wear the giddiest, gayest hat available—and still be the last fashionable word. Dare we mention only one color again? We can! Good! Then we will tell you once more that a costume is quite all this spring that does not admit, even flaunt a festive color note anywhere.

AND WHETHER better than in a hat? Of course, you should not go to extreme by choosing a hat the size of a sombrero in firemen's red. But you can choose a small fitting top-piece in some flashing shade, especially if your frock or coat insists on a more staid color combination.

Turbans, hains, and small cloches can play merrily with the Algerian shades, for example. In bright yellows, reds, blues and greens they will look stunning topped with coats, suits or frocks in navy, black, beige and gray. Another accessory may well play up the same shade without causing too great a commotion. If you are going in for color, there is one thing which you should remember—the fabric is smartest when dim, Jersey.

Yachting Is Popular at Cannes

Rogers Heiress Is Hostess on Cruise to Greece and Dalmatian Coast

By BARON GEORGE WRANGEL, Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

Cannes, France, March 10—When amusement ashore begins to pale, there is always the blue Mediterranean.

Lady Fairhaven took a party of friends aboard her luxurious yacht, Sapphire, for a cruise in Greece, the Dalmatian coast, Brioni and Venice.

Lady Fairhaven, it will be recalled, is the former Clara Leland Rogers, daughter of the oil magnate, H. S. Rogers. Her yachting costume consisted of a nautical blue and white pleated skirt, a matching short, double-breasted jacket and a smart, navy blue felt hat.

Also aboard were Sir Ralph Gore and Lady Gore. Lady Gore wore a navy blue ensemble, and her peaked cap bore the crest of the Royal Yacht Club.

However, the shore is far from deserted. Miss Lily Wickham was noted on the cruise, wearing a lavender blouse, plaited skirt, costume with a matching crepe-de-chine tuck-in blouse and a small matching felt hat. She is the daughter of Col. S. M. Wickham of a lengthy, Pa., and sister of Lady Hatfield.

Mrs. Henry Clegg of New York, an habitué of the Riviera, always wears her skirts ankle length, no matter what the fashion, is now quite in accord with the mode. She wore a white satin skirt and light bodice with silver leaves in her hair at the Charity Gala at the Casino.

Tea at the Ambassadeurs is one of the "things to do." Mrs. Beaumont, wife of Comdr. Louis Beaumont of Los Angeles, was there recently.

MOTHER'S DAY FIGHT LOOMS

New York, March 10 (AP)—The question of whose Mother's Day it is threatens to become an issue in court.

The Golden Rule Foundation, at a luncheon today, planned for "better observance" of the day, this year on May 10. Miss Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia, claiming to be the founder, incorporator and copyrighter of Mother's Day, has filed a protest against "commercializing" it. She told the Foundation she might bring suit unless its plan is dropped.

Charles V. Vickery said the Foundation, of which he is president, seeks funds from those whose mothers are dead, to aid destitute living mothers.

Some years ago Frank R. Haring of South Bend, Ind., and Mary T. Wilson, Kentucky school teacher, each claimed to have founded Mother's Day long before Miss Jarvis.

Four Feared Lost in Big Lake Storm

Charlevoix, Mich., March 10 (AP)—Relatives of four men, crew of the fishing tug Ethel B. missing on Lake Michigan since last Thursday, today were concerned as no word was received, the ship's fate in yesterday's storm.

Because of heavy drift ice it was impossible for coast guards from the Charlevoix station to leave the harbor here in search for the men, who were taken to a hospital.

GINGER ALE ON DRAUGHT NOW

Washington, March 10 (INB)—Bottles, however innocent their contents, are barred from the dining room of the Sherrinham, Washington's newest hotel.

The announcement, starting both in precedent and in probable effect, was made today as the result of the prohibition bureau ruling that the serving of bottled ginger ale or charged water, with cracked ice, constitutes a violation of the Volstead act.

No cracked ice will be served and a special soda fountain for dining room service has been installed for the preparation of limeades, lemonades and similar drinks. Ginger ale and mineral waters may be purchased on draught.

Other hotels, the announcement intimated, probably will follow the example of the Sherrinham.

Fire Brings Tragedy to Family of Five

New York, March 10 (AP)—Flames took tragically a family of five in Queens early today, killing the mother and a daughter and sending the other three to a hospital.

Mrs. Dora Abrams, 49, was fatally injured when she jumped 30 feet to the ground. Anna, 11, was burned to death in bed. David Abrams, 30, the husband; Ruth, 18, and Milton, 15, suffered burns and contusions in their attempts to escape and were taken to a hospital.

BECOMINGNESS THE KEYNOTE OF NEW SPRING HATS

And Amos Parrish Predicts Almost Endless Variety of Shapes to Choose From

FASHION WEEK—presenting Easter and Spring fashions in coats, suits, dresses, hats, accessories and men's clothing

Fashion's Spring Hats

In the Circle: Crocheted crown, straw brim, a Watteau line in back and a subtly placed flower—no wonder hats are called "pretty."

Below: The "hale" turban—that makes an angel of fashion.

Right: 1931's part new sailor—with echoes of the Gibson girl.

SPRING hats are becoming. And becoming in a pretty way. Easy to wear. There is no "the smart hat" for Spring. It's "the smart hats." And the hat most becoming is the smartest.

Spring hats are becoming because they're soft-looking. Made of straws that are soft. Or fabrics that are soft. Straws and fabrics that are pliable...easy to drape into becoming outlines.

Becoming Because Feminine

Spring hats are becoming because they're feminine. Flowers on hats are fashionable once more...under the brim—by the ear—at the back of the neck. Feathers on hats are fashionable. And so are ribbons.

They're Worn Becomingly

Spring hats are becoming because of the way they're worn. And they're worn to show lots of hair. Worn back on the head to disclose smooth, shining waves. Worn tilted to one side to reveal the curls clustered on the other side.

Whether they're little...and round...and brimless—or larger...and irregular...and brimmed—makes no difference in gauging their chic!

TOMORROW—In the fourth Fashion Week article Amos Parrish reports on fashionable suits, shoes and stockings.

What the NEW HUMIDOR PACK means to Camel Smokers *

COMPARE a package of Camels with any other cigarette and note the difference in the technique of packing.

Note that Camels are completely enclosed in an outer transparent cover of moisture-proof cellophane and sealed air-tight at every point.

We call this outer shell the Humidor Pack. It differs from the ordinary cellophane pack and while it is egg-shell thin, it means a lot in terms of cigarette enjoyment.

It means, for instance, that evaporation is checkmated and that Salt Lake City can now have as good Camels as Winston-Salem.

While Camels are made of a blend of the choicest Turkish and mellowest domestic tobaccos, it is highly important, if you are to get full benefit of this quality, that these cigarettes come to you with their natural moisture content still intact.

The Humidor Pack insures that. It prevents the fine tobaccos of Camels from drying out and losing any of their delightful flavor.

Aside from cheap tobacco, two factors in a cigarette can mar the smoker's pleasure:

Fine particles of peppery dust if left in the tobacco by inefficient cleaning methods sting and irritate delicate throat membrane.

Dry tobacco, robbed of its natural moisture by scorching or by evaporation gives off a hot smoke that burns the throat with every inhalation.

We take every precaution against these factors here at Winston-Salem.

A special vacuum cleaning apparatus removes dust and now the new Humidor Pack prevents dryness.

Check the difference yourself

It is a very simple matter to check the difference between Humidor Packed Camels and other ordinary dry cigarettes.

First of all you can feel the difference as you roll the cigarettes between your fingers. Camels are full-bodied and pliable. A dry cigarette crumbles under pressure and sheds tobacco.

If you will hold a cigarette to each ear and roll them with your fingers you can actually hear the difference.

The real test of course is to smoke them. And here's where the new Humidor Pack proves a real blessing to the smoker.

As you inhale the cool, fragrant smoke from a Camel you get all the mildness and magic of the fine tobaccos of which it is blended.

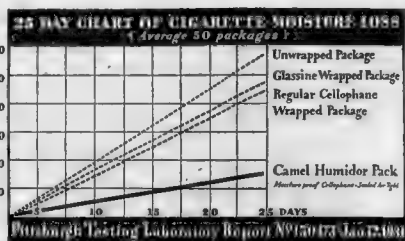

But when you draw in the hot smoke from a dried cigarette see how flat and brackish it is by comparison and how harsh it is to your throat.

If you are a regular Camel smoker you have already noticed what proper condition of the cigarette means.

But if you haven't tried Camels in the new Humidor Pack you have a new adventure with Lady Nicotine in store.

Switch your affections for just one day, then go back to your old love tomorrow if you can.

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO COMPANY, Winston-Salem, N. C.

The Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory chart above graphically shows you that only the Camel Humidor Pack delivers cigarettes to you in prime condition

WARNER ASKS CURB ON INVESTMENT TRUSTS

Tragedy Hits Them
ANTONETTE CLARAMITARO

Other Safeguards for Public Sought by Attorney-General in Legislature

To prevent the public from being misled, Massachusetts should pass legislation to regulate investment trusts, Attorney General E. Warner told the joint legislative committee on banks and banking at a hearing today, in discussing his annual report to the legislature.

"There is little or no law in this state which has to do with the regulation of investment trusts," said Mr. Warner. "It is time for the Massachusetts public to be made aware of the fact that the public should not be misled by the sale of securities."

"The question of investment trusts is a very broad one," Mr. Warner said. "It is a question of the public's right to know the truth about the securities it is buying."

Among the suggestions made in his report was that investment trusts with a capital structure of $100,000 or more, and with assets of more than $500,000 should be required to register with the state.

Spreading on the last mentioned suggestion, the attorney-general said:

"The trustees of such trusts should be the managers and held responsible for the management. The real management of these trusts is often left to some one else who is not a trustee."

"If the trustees were made responsible for the sale of securities, it would be a step toward the elimination of the securities fraud."

"We should not be obliged to wait until damage is done before we are permitted to investigate."

It BABY HAS COLIC

COLIC comes suddenly. Your first intuition is that something is wrong may be a warning sign in the night. If you have a bottle of Castoria handy you needn't worry, for a little of this pure vegetable remedy will soon have baby's happy self again; let him go back to sleep.

Castoria is always the sensible thing to give an ailing child. When a child is restless, fretful, with coated tongue, bad breath and lack of appetite, it is a mother's standby. Most mothers give Castoria an important place in their homes. Ready for sour stomach, constipation, or upset. When buying Fletcher's Castoria always look for Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. This identifies the genuine product.

Sharkey-Carnera Dwarfs Schmeling-Stribling

PRIMO CARNERA has challenged Jim London, clarion Alex Sullivan, public relations counsel and publicity purveyor, which is only a high falutin' name for press agent, of the Fabiani-Carly troupe of performing pachyderms, and Fabiani has accepted the defi with the proviso the Ambling Alp will meet the Greek Hercules in the Boston Garden. That's the barney, the bologny and appeasance.

The Tall Tower of Gargonzola isn't going to be hogged by any wrestling mahout as long as a half a million dollar fight with Jack Sharkey awaits him. And if Carnera ever should grapple with London do you think it would be in the Boston Garden?

No it's not. It would be in an open air ballgame, where about half the world could squeeze in to be taken. For half the world would want to see the other, so great a grip has wrestling on the populace at the present time and so great a hold has the giant Carnera on the imagination of the citizenry.

Jim London
 Alex got the germ of his tale from a line which appeared in "Falling" a week ago, in which it was said that Bill Carver, boss of Madison Square Garden, Jaques Carney and a big Italian politician and sewerage engineer had their heads together in an endeavor to bring about a mat clash between Carnera and London.

THE GARDEN boss is striving to temporarily interest Carnera in wrestling in an endeavor to shut the great Italian out of the limelight, so that the Sharkey-Carnera match will not interfere with Phil's intentions of bringing together with him Jack Sharkey, who Schmeling won the title from by shrieking foul from the floor and whom he solemnly promised and publicly agreed to meet in a return match—but with Young Stribling, who Sharkey handed a smashing in the Georgian's own Dixie ballroom.

Carney thinks Schmeling is a great champion. Sure he is a great champion. But the only champion who ever won the heavyweight title on the flat aqueducting foot. Even Jim Corbett never showed the understanding ability of Schmeling in doing the Sharkey match.

CULEY AND his Italian newspaper and political friend want to match Carnera with London for the money there is in it. And no one can blame them. Outside of a Schmeling-Sharkey or a Sharkey-Carnera fight there is no sporting event which would coax as many thrills into the box office as New York mat action between Carnera and London.

But you'll not see any Carnera-London wrestling bout until Carnera and Sharkey meet in the ring. And you can bet all the tea they tossed overboard in Boston before the night of the big tea party that Sharkey and Carnera will meet in New York or New Jersey before the good old summer time is more than half over.

THE ONLY thing that will cause a postponement is a Schmeling-Sharkey match. If the Schmeling-Stribling bout is abandoned, as certain signs along the trail now indicate is a possibility, and the German obeys the mandate of the N. Y. State Athletic Commission for him to fulfill his promise and agreement to meet Sharkey, the Carnera-Sharkey fight will be postponed until September. Carnera and Matony probably would meet in Boston, sooner to take on the Sharkey-Schmeling victor later.

If Carnera eventually takes a fling at Jack Sharkey, it will be because he has ceased to be a drawing card in the ring. No first class professional boxer ever deserted the ring for the mat. Tiny Roxburgh and Stan Stasiak were boxers, but awful ones. Ray Berlabach was an amateur wrestler and a good one before Dan Hickory got him down on the boxing gloves. Frank Gotch, greatest of all wrestlers, turned boxer and under an assumed name was knocked out in one round by old Frank Stribling in the Klondike. Tom Marvin, the wrestler, once was a setup for Young Stribling.

While fanning on the performing pachyderms we would like to see Primo Carnera, or someone just as big, take Max Baer to the ring and Max Baer to the ring. A good fanning with a shingle would make him things tangle and give the idea into their heads that wrestling war is all wrong. Max Baer, all wrong. For instance, what is the percentage of staging one wrestling match here on Thursday night? The answer is, Primo. Both sides will suffer, but wrestling impresarios take a swelling in the pocket-book which easily could be avoided.

Brower has a long-up wrestling card for the Arena on Thursday—Pal McKay vs. Nick Latta, George Calin vs. George Vassili, Al Merrill vs. George Cook, Kewpie Elliott vs. Frank Dellmann, Jack Wagner vs. Jack Cannon, John Spelman vs. Leo Hyatt and Nick Karlov vs. Ernie Nolan.

Fabiani has another great wrestling show billed in the Garden on Friday night, Jim London vs. Glas Garbath, Roy Steele vs. Matrona Kirlenok, Dick Davidson vs. Paul Smith, Earl Kennedy vs. Jack Washburn and Rudy Dusek vs. Floyd Marshall.

Both of these shows would draw packed houses if they were staged several days apart, instead of crowded into successive evenings. Times are hard. Money is tight. The fans haven't got the dough—me to go to a wrestling show every night.

Why can't Fabiani and Brower come to some kind of an agreement and work on alternate weeks. In the end their own troupe as well as the wrestling game would benefit. Both are staging wrestling shows in New York. Why don't they split the market and alternate on the New York show the same week. That would do away with conflicts in both cities. The way they are working now they only are injuring themselves.

GEORGE CALZA
 BUZZ ARLETT, the Philhell hit hitting rookie, showed up at camp without a uniform. Donning a pair of sneakers and improved short trousers, he hit the first ball pitched for 400 feet. Drove the rest two over the fence. "That the pitcher should be hitting," Clark Griffith says if the ball came in help the pitcher the heavier covers on the new balls will help the batters. Says the batters with hitting the ball all day long.

knocked out Charlie Mitchell in Jacksonville there never has been a Florida scrap in which something wasn't wrong. Thirty years after the Corbett-Mitchell fight, Jess Jauch matched Tunney and Stribling. Tunney ran out the night before the fight when he found the money was not forthcoming. "Someone got it in the neck in the Sharkey-Stribling, Sharkey-Stribling and Carnera-Matony affair," Florida air doesn't seem to agree with the breeze.

John Henry Herman, who once managed Frank Gotch, is looking out after the Paul Brower interest in New York wrestling battle with Jack Sharkey. "Noble and the prime owner, who has recently, was the son of George Patterson, the Australian tennis ace. Mark Koenig, who wears a pair of not-shatterable glasses, may win the regular Detroit shortstop berth.

BOBBY TO PLAY GOLF FOR FUN IN FUTURE

Hollywood, Cal., March 10 (AP)—A boost for another George pole was given by Bobby Jones' first successes after his arrival at Hollywood. He was told to let his first golf tournament be held on the day of his arrival.

"Good for it," said Bob. "Maybe he'll go on and win a lot of them. It's a great thing to do it he might at that. And a big boy never knows when he's licked, at golf or anything else."

Jones will not make all his golf shots exclusively for the camera while he is in California. He will play in at least two exhibitions for charity as a part of his golfing matches.

It was suggested by the thought that his game must always be in the best of condition to uphold the well-known Jones standard in competition. Bob has turned with zest to a lot of experiments.

"I'll try anything now," he said. "There's no reason why I shouldn't expect to have a lot of fun playing golf. It's not fun when you are trying to win a championship."

"That's an idea, too," said Jones. "I'll try it all at that. Jones, of course, has played all winter with the best and he's the game of the average player will be helped by the change."

"Certainly, it binds the green belt and there does not seem to be much loss distance in the drive."

'Bring 'Em Back Alive' Author Gets Rare Rhinos at Last

Getting down to brass tacks, or the naked truth, or something of the sort, wouldn't you be surprised to find an unwitting guest in your bathtub bickering performing his ablutions? Read how Frank Buck surprised a British host of Bazaar by dropping in at nightfall during the Briton's absence and making himself comfortable.

CHAPTER X
 The day was arrived in Singapore was a regular circus for the residents there. Fourteen large bullock carts and two motor lorries transported my rhinos and animals from the stock out to the compound, followed by the four elephants.

Thousands of natives and not a few white fellows followed us through the streets of Calcutta. A few times, when we had to stop for traffic, the curious crowd around us in such mobs that we could hardly move.

With the vast Singapore collection of animals, I had the biggest collection of live animals and birds ever assembled in one place with the possible exception of the big zoo in New York, Philadelphia, London and Hamburg.

This is not the place for details of my return to America with this record-breaking shipment. This, after all, is the story of those two Indian rhinos.

On my return to America I disposed of my great collection of animals and birds on their proper destinations. I broadcasted early again and decided to visit Dr. Hornaday in New York before returning to Nepal.

BACK TO INDIA
 I called on him and made a full report. He was delighted to learn that I had "brought in" the Indian rhino for him and one for Dr. Penrose. He was the end of

SHARKEY MAY MEET PRIMO IN JULY

New York, March 10 (UPI)—James J. Johnston, the man-in-the-woodpile of the boxing business, will soon announce a match that will stagger the industry.

The mysterious little New Yorker has virtually closed for a bout between Primo Carnera, Italian heavyweight, and Jack Sharkey, leading American title contender.

The Madison Square Garden Corporation will have nothing to do with staging the bout.

If possible, Johnston intends to donate half of the profits to the oppressed of the world.

Carnera is still under suspension in this state, but that matter is expected to be settled satisfactorily.

Port of Boston News

By JAMES J. DELANEY

Captains and crews of ships arriving in the port yesterday told vivid tales of battles with the elements at the height of the recent northeast storm.

The first to reach the harbor was the Dutch tugboat Ringkum from Batavia and other ports in the Dutch East Indies. Capt. Karel Van Derboek stated that he was in Boston by Sunday, but that the severity of the gale caused him to stand in the water until it abated. He was tied up at Pier 1, New Haven docks.

Carrying 35 passengers, the Mermaid steamer of the Merchants' Transport Co., from Baltimore and Norfolk, docked yesterday morning, becoming unmanageable off Fire Island when her steering gear damaged. A wireless message brought the Coast Guard cutter Sassa to her side. Capt. A. C. Smith refused assistance, patting the ship's damage himself and continuing.

The S. M. Mayard of the United Fruit Co., which was caught in the gale, came in from Preston, Cuba.

STORM PRICES

Fish prices went up yesterday as the storm pressed Monday arrivals at the Fish Pier. Only 10 vessels arrived with small catches. Captains and crews of the arriving fishermen reported that the storm forced them to suspend operations. The rest of the usual first of the week arrivals are expected to appear the night of today.

JENNIE AND JULIA

The new fishing schooner Jennie and Julia is nearly ready for launching. She will start out on trips on the Water Police. The new vessel is being built at Essex. She is named for the two children of Lawrence School, the owner.

HUB GIRL HOME

Gertrude Townsend, prominent socially in Boston, was booked to arrive on the Wahkiakum from Olympia, which is due to dock in New York today, from Southampton and Charleston.

STORM DAMAGED

Three freighters are being repaired in Boston as a result of the recent ravages of the storm. The Wahkiakum, Wahkiakum, and Wahkiakum are being repaired at the shipyard.
